Operation 40 was the code name for a Central Intelligence Agency-sponsored counterintelligence group composed of Cuban exiles.[1] The group was formed to seize control of the Cuban government after the Bay of Pigs Invasion.[2] Operation 40 continued to operate unofficially until disbanded in 1970 due to allegations that an aircraft that was carrying cocaine and heroin in support of the group crashed in California.[1]

It was approved by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in March 1960, after the January 1959 Cuban Revolution, and was presided over by Vice President Richard Nixon.[citation needed]

Origins [edit]

On 11 December 1959, following the Cuban Revolution of January 1959, Colonel J.C. King, chief of the CIA's Western Hemisphere Division, sent a confidential memorandum to CIA director Allen W. Dulles. King argued that in Cuba there existed a "far-left dictatorship, which if allowed to remain will encourage similar actions against U.S. holdings in other Latin American countries." [citation needed]

It's great to see the Brazilian national team active again, with a high-profile friendly match against Spain, which ended in a 27817; a 3-3 draw. Rodrygo, one of the team's star players, raised some controversy with his comments about the refereeing. Despite this, the game was a hit with the public, achieving the highest audience in four years for a friendly match on Globo TV.

The upcoming matches for the Brazilian national team are promising to be exciting, with a busy schedule of friendly matches in the United States and, of course, the Copa América and World Cup qualifiers. The team's coach, Dorival Júnior, is also expected to announce new talent for the squad in the coming months.

In the game against Spain, we saw a new young Spanish talent, Lamine Yamal, who's only 15 years old! He's already being called the "Endrick of Spain", drawing parallels with Brazil's rising star, Endrick, who's also a wonderkid. This new rivalry between Brazil and Spain is sure to make future matches even more thrilling!
