Although the concept of xG has been developed by statisticians and specialists, the O O bet365 O bet365 analysis of football has, at some point, popularized the term, which is primarily used by the company and its football "StatsBomb"
StatsBomb was founded in 2014 by Ted Knutson, a statistician and analyst in American football. Knutson had previously worked at the analytics department of Tottenham Hotspur and Brentford FC, where he applied various data analysis techniques to help with player recruitment and game strategy. Under Knutson's leadership, StatsBomb came to develop and promote the use of statistical advances in football, including xG.
Since then, xG has become a metric used in football, not only as a tool for evaluating player performance and teams, but also as a key metric for clubs and fans alike, as well as a key tool for evaluating performance and teams.
